Jobs with a video are more likely to have higher engagement and quality applications, it's an opportunity to talk about the great things about the company culture and provide additional context to recruiters and candidates about the role.

It only takes 5-8 minutes to record this video, if you are not the right person to talk about this role you can share the recording link with someone more suitable.

Select the “department field” on the “Job details” panel

We need to know the type of department in order to recommend the relevant skills for this role.

Candidate requirements *

- Fewer requirements lead to higher application rates, so it helps to be concise. A candidate is 25% more likely to apply for a role with 1-3 requirements than a role with 7+ requirements
- Put yourself in the shoes of the ideal candidate – is each bullet helping to attract them, or is it unnecessary noise that might be putting some good people off?
- If you're open-minded about the requirements, be explicit about it. 'We're happy to accept applications from someone with 1-5 years of engineering experience' is much better than 'Demonstrable experience in software engineering'
